Students in each category will compete against peers in their grade bands (K–2, 3–5, 6–8, 9–12) and all students nationwide are eligible to participate. Winners could win gift cards up to $1500 and select students will also be invited to an in-person art show overseen by the Stride K12 Creative Services team. The deadline to enter is March 25th.

“Our Art Competitions always highlight the creativity of students nationwide and its one of the most diverse, creative, and competitive programs we offer,” said Karen Ghidotti, Senior Vice President of Customer Experience at Stride. “This year, we’re adding AI into the mix and look forward to the connection between traditional creativity and what the future may offer.”

The 2024 Art Competition is one of the many opportunities offered at Stride K12 for students to showcase their academic and artistic talents. Students, whether they attend a K12-powered school or not, can explore industries and creative outlets with national competition and contests including art, Robotics and STEM topics, cooking, and more.
