

K12 Inc. Announces Launch of The Foundation for Blended and Online Learning

January 19, 2016

K12 creates an independent charitable educational organization to advance and improve online and blended learning

HERNDON, Va., Jan. 19, 2016 /PRNewswire-USNewswire/ -- K12 Inc., America's leading provider of K-12 online school programs, today announced the creation of The Foundation for Blended and Online Learning – an independent charitable educational organization.

The mission of The Foundation for Blended and Online Learning is to empower students through personalized learning by advancing the availability and quality of blended and online learning opportunities and outcomes.

The Foundation will be a completely independent organization with its own Board of Directors and staff.

"K12 is proud to launch The Foundation for Blended and Online Learning. This independent organization will help to improve the national educational landscape for all children and educators," said K12 Chairman and Chief Executive Officer, Nate Davis, "We are proud to have recruited a dynamic Board of Directors who can utilize their experience to move our shared vision forward."

The Board of Directors of the Foundation consists of prominent industry leaders and experts.

Kevin Chavous (Chairman) – Founding Board Member and Executive Counsel for the American Federation for Children

Robyn Bagley – Founder and Principal, Early College High School

Allison Cleveland – Executive Vice President of School Management and Services, K12 Inc.

Linda Lopez – former Arizona State Senator

Caroline Vander Ark – COO of Getting Smart

The Foundation will strive to achieve three main goals: to provide post-secondary scholarships to students, to institute a grant program for individuals and organizations making progress in teaching in digital and blended learning, and to bring together key stakeholders on educational advancement through intentional collaboration.

"K12 puts students first and maximizes their potential through the use of innovative, next generation technology. I can't think of a better way to give back than to support those that help advance the field of digital and blended learning. We invite others to join us in sponsoring The Foundation to help foster student, teacher, and academic advancements in the world of blended and online education," said Davis.

Through multi-faceted giving program, The Foundation for Blended and Online Learning seeks to build out scholarship programs to include educational endowments for undergraduate juniors/seniors pursuing teaching degrees, academic achievement tuition scholarships for online and blended students, as well as technology stipends for materials. Additionally, The Foundation's grant program will be designed to provide financial support to teachers working in blended and virtual schooling environments or using digital content. The Foundation will provide grants to educators for professional development, graduate coursework completion, development and replication of best practices for teaching in virtual environments.

"Thanks to K12's vision and financial generosity, we are excited to launch The Foundation," said Board Chairman, Kevin Chavous. "Through our work we have an opportunity to shine a new light and illuminate blended and online learning advancements in education."
