Supply Chain Transparency Policy

Hillenbrand, Inc. is a global diversified industrial company. Hillenbrand, Inc. and its subsidiaries ("Hillenbrand") are committed to complying with applicable legislation in all parts of the world, including in relation to understanding the content and associated sourcing of materials in our products and in working to ensure no slavery or human trafficking exists within our supply chain.

Cooperation from our suppliers is necessary in order for Hillenbrand to obtain the information required for us to ensure compliance with these and other laws. Accordingly, our suppliers are expected to commit to providing information periodically requested by Hillenbrand in order to ensure our compliance with various laws impacting our supply chain. We expect our suppliers to adopt and implement, or already have in existence, policies and procedures that allow them to respond to our requests for information. In essence, we expect our suppliers to know their own supply chains, including their sub-suppliers, and be capable of responding promptly, accurately, and transparently to our requests for information.

Hillenbrand is committed to addressing the important issues raised by supply chain transparency laws now and in the future, and we will continue to evaluate our supply chain with regard to these and other issues.
