

Domo Welcomes Dean Germeyer as Chief Revenue Officer

May 29, 2018

SILICON SLOPES, Utah, May 09, 2018 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Domo®, the cloud-based operating system for business, today announced that Dean Germeyer has joined the company as chief revenue officer. Germeyer joins Domo in this new position from SAP North America where he most recently led service sales, owning responsibility for $1.7 billion of new services contracts annually.

"Dean's experience selling solutions to CEOs in a very complex space, is a tremendous fit for where we are as a business," said Josh James, Domo founder and CEO. "Today, we have more than 1,500 customers, and within those companies, more than 400 CEOs are using Domo. I'm thrilled to welcome him to our management team. I'm looking forward to seeing his experience at work, along with the leadership of Shane Atchison, our new CMO, in leveraging the opportunity in front of us."

Germeyer, during his tenure of more than ten years at SAP, was also responsible for SAP's services relationships with its top 100 North America accounts. Prior to SAP, he served in a number of general management, sales and consulting leadership roles within the software industry in the U.S., Canada, Europe and Japan.

"I've spent my entire career helping companies with their digital transformation journey," said Germeyer. "Domo attracted me because it is applicable to any company, industry or government. It is the first solution I've seen that empowers any organization to rapidly digitize their entire business, unlocking value across every employee for the good of the company. I'm thrilled to be joining the team Josh has assembled, and to be part of an organization that has demonstrated so much commitment to the long-term success of its customers."

Germeyer holds a bachelor's degree in Mathematics, Computer Science and Psychology from Carnegie Mellon University.
